Commander's Report by Donnie Prye

Happy Halloween to all the ghosts and goblins of Camp 15. As you may have noticed, we don't have a meeting scheduled for November! How then are we to elect officers for the coming term you ask?

If no one has any objections, I would like brother John Deppen,

JVC (in the absence of Greg Kline, SVC) to present the roster of candidates for office for 2008 at the October meeting, and we can also vote to accept or deny them at the same time. I believe this will be a good idea since November is such a busy month with Veterans' Day, Remembrance Day, Thanksgiving Day, and of course, Buck Season! You know us rural folks have to get our supply of meat in for the winter! See you at the meeting --- BOO! Donnie

Officers Present:

Officers Absent:

Dave Klinepeter, Gene Mascioli, and Kelly Betz

Members Present:

Don Fry, Russ Kratzer, and Stan Zellers

Commander Don Prye called the SUVCW Camp 15 meeting to order at 2:01 pm. Treasurer David Demmy reported that the camp treasury contains $3250.

Health up-dates were given by Chaplain David Demmy. Brother Arthur Longnaker is improving from his surgery. Illnesses of other camp brothers' family members were noted.

Two rifles remain from our house-cleaning sale. Again, the price is $650 for the public and $600 for Camp 15 members.

Secretary Larry Sheibley read Department Order No. 1 from PA Department Commander Lee Walters. Next, the following dates and events were noted:

- October 6 Testimonial luncheon for Commander-in-Chief Charles Kuhn, Jr., in Gettysburg
- October 28 Camp Curtin Historical Society trip to two Antietam museums
- November 3 Department of PA mid-year meeting at Doc Holliday's, New Cumberland
- November 10 Community Free Day at the National Civil War Museum, Harrisburg
- November 17 Remembrance Day breakfast, parade and ball in Gettysburg

Any camp member interested in participating in the Remembrance Day parade should contact Senior-Vice Commander Greg Kline.

Brothers Demmy and Kline and Mrs. Demmy are in charge of the December Christmas Party and Swearing-in Ceremony. Any other brothers interested in being on this committee should contact the camp.

Our Camp Council recommended that Camp 15 donate $50 to the Montgomery County Historical Society and $50 to the Abraham Lincoln Endowment. Brother Fry moved and Brother Haley seconded that the entire $100 be donated to MGHS because they tend to the cemetery where our namesake, General John F. Hartranft, (is buried in the Montgomery Cemetery). Also, the MCHS director conducted the free tour for our June field trip (see the two previous issues of this newsletter). The motion was approved. A discussion of the field trip followed.

Brother David Demmy attended the National Encampment in St. Louis. While there, he noticed a vender selling Camp 15 SUVCW belt buckles. The Commander asked the Secretary to contact Department Brother Richard Orr about this violation of our franchise rights.

Brothers Prye, Kline, and Deppen attended the August 11 General John White Geary Monument Dedication at the Gettysburg National Park.

The commander closed the camp at 3:28 pm.

Deppen to appear at National Civil War Museum -- for immediate news-release:

Harrisburg, PA – John Deppen of Northumberland will appear as Union Major General Winfield Scott Hancock at The National Civil War Museum in Harrisburg as part of the museum's Community Free Day on Saturday, November 10. Admission to the museum will be free for all visitors. Deppen is scheduled to perform his dramatic, first-person portrayal of General

Hancock, entitled "Forward to Gettysburg," at 11:30am. Following the performance, he will be available to answer questions and pose for photographs.

Deppen's performances as General Hancock have received wide praise. Dr. Anthony Waskie, President of the General Meade Society of Philadelphia, commented, "I closed my eyes and felt that I was actually in the presence of the great hero, General Hancock, so convincing, so well informed, and passionate the performance was. John Deppen really does make history come alive when he portrays Hancock the Superb!" Mr. Michael A. Dreese of Kreamer, author of several Civil War books, including Never Desert the Old Flag and Torn Families: Death And Kinship at the Battle of Gettysburg, wrote, "Not only does John Deppen bear a striking resemblance to General Winfield Scott Hancock, but he has also conducted considerable research on his subject. His presentations will appeal to history enthusiasts of all ages."

Deppen began his portrayal of General Hancock in 1997. He wrote the script for "Forward to Gettysburg" based on years of research. In his ten-year career as a Civil War living historian, Deppen has made hundreds of appearances in Pennsylvania, Delaware, Ohio, and New York. He has appeared with noted Abraham Lincoln interpreter James Getty at The Slifer House Museum in Lewisburg; joined Licensed Battlefield Guide Andie Custer for tours of the Gettysburg battlefield focusing on Hancock; performed his program at the Rupp House History Center in Gettysburg; and appeared at historic Montgomery Cemetery in Norristown, the final resting place of General Hancock.

In addition to making appearances as General Hancock, Deppen is a writer whose articles and book reviews have appeared in The Daily Item, The Civil War News, Civil War Book Review, Military Heritage, Gettysburg Magazine, Blue and Gray, and Civil War Historian. (and our very own Hartranft Herald). He serves as the Junior Vice Commander for General John F. Hartranft Camp #15 of the Sons of Union Veterans of the Civil War. He is a past president of the Susquehanna CWRT, a member of the Civil War Preservation Trust, Friends of the National Parks at Gettysburg, and the Sons of the American Legion. In 2006, Deppen received the Jane Hawn Award for Service to Veterans at the annual Salute to Veterans held at the Susquehanna Valley Mall in Selinsgrove. Deppen is employed as a consultant in the Division of Special Education and Early Childhood at the Central Susquehanna Intermediate Unit in Montandon.

In an article for Civil War Historian, Deppen examined his inspiration for portraying Hancock. "Courageous, charismatic, and competent, Hancock was the quintessential Civil War combat officer. In his memoirs, Ulysses S. Grant wrote, 'Hancock stands as the most conspicuous figure of all the general officers who did not exercise a separate command. He commanded a corps longer than any other one, and his name was never mentioned as having committed in battle a blunder for which he was responsible....No matter how hard the fight the 2nd Corps always felt that their commander was looking after them.'"

The National Civil War Museum is located at One Lincoln Circle at Reservoir Park in Harrisburg. For more information about the museum and its programs, call 717-260-1861, or visit the museum's website at www.nationalcivilwarmuseum.org.

“. . . . . Again my many thanks for keeping me in mind to receive (your) Newsletter. I still find it very informative and to the point. It was again nice to share the National Encampment with you and your wife and [I] look forward to seeing you both again”.

-- My best, Brother Eric.

“. . . . . Nice work on the (Camp 15) website”. -- From Bill, a history buff reader in Strawberry Square.

“Thanks as always for the terrific job on the Hartranft Herald”. (see below) for an article on the Dedication of the General Geary Monument in Gettysburg, held on August 11, 2007.

-- John Deppen.

Dear Camp members and readers of the Camp's monthly newsletter. The Hartranft Herald wholeheartedly thanks, Dave Demmy, Jr., my webmaster, for the time and effort he has put into reviving our website, placing all past Hartranft Herald news on the site, and for making the monthly Hartranft Herald available in two modes for reading and/or printing for the pleasure of our members and readers to enjoy. Soon, the history of Camp 15 will be updated on our website.

GENERAL JOHN WHITE GEARY

On Saturday, August 11, officers of General John F. Hartranft Camp #15 of the Sons of Union Veterans of the Civil War participated in the dedication of the General John White Geary statue on Culp's Hill at Gettysburg National Military Park. Commander Donnie Prye, Senior Vice Commander Greg Kline, and Junior Vice Commander John Deppen laid a wreath at Geary's statue above and in the next photograph.

The ceremony was planned and orchestrated by

Mr. Sheldon Munn, President of the Harrisburg Civil War Round Table, and featured several notable speakers, including GOVERNOR EDWARD RENDELL, Dr. John Latschar, Superintendent of GNMP, Charles Fennell, Licensed Battlefield Guide, and Dr Richard Sommers.

BATTERY PERSONNEL IN ATTENDANCE.

Additional photos will appear at Camp 15 Website when time permits for uploading.

CAMP CURTIN PERSONNEL IN ATTENDANCE.

In keeping with similar ceremonies that took place on the battlefield more than a century ago, the dedication of the Geary monument included musical selections and lasted close to two hours. Other participants in the ceremony included the General Meade Society of Philadelphia and the Freemasons.

COMMANDER PRYE COMMENTED that the dedication was one of the highlights of his service as Camp Commander.

- Art Longnaker
- Mrs. Gilbert Kyle
- Mrs. Frank Haley
- Mrs. Lee Walters
- Eric Schmincke, PDC

And, some brothers who desire not to list their names. Please remember these brothers and sisters in your daily prayers and God Bless America.

Feature from Harper's Weekly

On October 4, 1862, Harper's Weekly featured a cartoon about General George B. McClellan and the Battle of Antietam.

General M'Clellan Entering the Town of Frederick, Maryland--The Popular Welcome

Artist: Thomas Nast

This cover illustration of Harper's Weekly honors the military leadership of General George B. McClellan, commander of the Army of the Potomac, who rides triumphantly into Frederick, Maryland, following the Union victory at the Battle of Antietam, Maryland, on September 17, 1862 (a week before this post-dated issue was published). The battle was one of the major turning points of the Civil War because it repelled a Confederate invasion of a Union state, where General Robert E. Lee had hoped to win a major victory, and it gave President Abraham Lincoln a suitable military pretext for issuing the preliminary Emancipation Proclamation.

George B. McClellan (1826-1885) was born in Philadelphia, the son of a surgeon and medical professor. Young McClellan attended Philadelphia prep schools, and then studied at the University of Pennsylvania from 1840 until 1842 when he accepted an appointment to West Point. Graduating second in his class in 1846, he served in the Mexican-American War (1846-1848) as an engineer constructing roads and bridges. He won three commendations for distinguished service and was raised to the rank of captain. At the war's conclusion, he returned to West Point to teach military engineering. While there, he translated and adapted a book of French regulations on bayonet exercises, which was adopted by the army in 1852.

McClellan left West Point in 1851 for a series of engineering assignments in Delaware, Arkansas, Texas, and the Cascade Mountains in the Pacific Northwest. In 1855, he joined a board of officers for a year abroad studying military systems in Europe and the Crimean War Theater, for which he wrote highly regarded reports. Based on his observations, he made several suggestions for improving the American armed forces, including a new kind of saddle. In 1857, he retired from the army to work in the railroad industry. He was chief engineer, then vice president, of the Illinois Central Railroad before accepting the presidency of the Ohio and Mississippi Railroad in 1860.

When the Civil War began, McClellan was named major general in charge of the Ohio volunteers and state militia, but within a month was appointed major general in the federal army and put in charge of the Department of Ohio. His victory at Rich Mountain, West Virginia (July 11, 1861), just ten days before the Union defeat at Bull Run, brought him to the attention of the military's top echelon. As a result, he was given command of the Division of the Potomac, centered around Washington, D. C. Finding the troops in disarray, he reorganized, trained, and disciplined them, who affectionately nicknamed him the “Young Napoleon.” He was a reluctant fighter, though, who continually overestimated enemy troop strength and hesitated to put his troops into action.

On August 15, 1861, McClellan assumed command of the Army of the Potomac, the major Union force in the Eastern Theater, and in November 1861, replaced General Winfield Scott, who retired, as general-in-chief. The appointment prompted McClellan to delay military action further as he pondered the larger military situation he had inherited. Lincoln's exasperation with his top general's slowness to battle, as well as disputes over strategy, led the president to relieve McClellan of the post of general-in-chief on March 11, 1862, although leaving him in charge of the Army of the Potomac.

After Confederate troops pushed Union forces away from the Confederate capital of Richmond in the Seven Days Campaign (June 24-July 1, 1862) and defeated the Union at the Second Battle of Bull Run (August 28-30, 1862), General Robert E. Lee invaded the Union state of Maryland. Lee hoped that his presence would inspire Confederate sympathizers in the state, and that a major victory would strengthen the Union peace movement and undermine Union morale. As Lee moved into western part of the state, McClellan had the good fortune to be given a mislaid copy of Lee's plans, which indicated that Confederate troops were currently scattered. However, instead of seizing the initiative, McClellan waited, allowing some of the Confederates time to reassemble at Antietam Creek near the town of Sharpsburg, Maryland.

The Battle of Antietam on September 6-7, 1862, was the bloodiest of the entire war. McClellan with 87,000 men repeatedly assaulted Lee, whose 50,000 men were reinforced by Confederate troops under Stonewall Jackson. At one point in the battle, when some Union troops found themselves trapped, 2,000 men were killed in a matter of minutes. In all, nearly 23,000 men were killed--13,000 Union soldiers and 10,000 Confederates--with many others wounded. The casualties at Antietam numbered four times the total suffered by American soldiers on the beaches of Normandy during World War II, and more than twice as many Americans lost their lives in one day of the battle as died in combat during the War of 1812, the Mexican-American War, and the Spanish-American War combined.

While Antietam was a tactical draw, it was a strategic loss for the Confederacy because they had to forsake, for the time, their invasion of the North. President Lincoln was not pleased with McClellan's performance after Antietam. The Union commander ignored the president's orders to overtake Lee's retreating troops swiftly and strike a deathblow against the Confederacy. Finally fed up with the excuses and procrastination, Lincoln relieved McClellan of his command on November 5, 1862. "I hate to see McClellan go," Robert E. Lee wrote to his wife.

McClellan never saw field duty again, but in 1864, the Democratic Party nominated him for president. The party platform reflected the dominant force of the Peace Democrats ("Copperheads") at the national convention. It criticized Lincoln's administration of the war effort, the suppression of civil liberties, and called for an immediate cessation of fighting and a negotiated settlement. McClellan repudiated the “peace plank,” promising, instead, to prosecute the war more effectively than Lincoln. The president defeated McClellan by a large margin in the Electoral College.

Retiring from the army on election day, McClellan spent the next three years traveling in Europe. He returned to head the construction of a newly designed warship, but the project was scrapped in 1869. He served as chief engineer of the New York City Docks (1870-1872), then as governor of New Jersey (1878-1881). McClellan died of a heart ailment in 1885.

PATRIOTIC INSTRUCTOR/GAR HISTORIAN

by Dave Klinepeter

I received my latest issue of the SUVCW Banner today, (of course read it today also!)

The picture on the front was very heart warming; it was great to see ALL of the Allied Organizations of the Grand Army of the Republic together. It is an honor to have a member of Hartranft Camp 15 Harrisburg, Pa serving as Commander-in chief of the Sons of Union Veterans. We need to support our brother in every way possible. Notice the beard on C in C Charlie Kuhn. If you can make it to the Remembrance Day parade on Nov 17 at Gettysburg, you will see him with that beard. Go to the SUVCW banquet that evening you will have to look very carefully because he shaves it off after the parade. I had that problem several years ago. I would like to encourage our camp members to either march in, or at least see the parade. There will be Sons of Veterans, Various Allied organizations of the Grand Army family (the ladies), reenactors, C. W. civilian groups, President Lincoln, Governor Curtin and others. I would also encourage our members to try to attend the 77th Annual Dinner in support of our Department Commander Lee Walters, (Camp 15 member), and Commander-in-chief Charles Kuhn (Camp 15 member). For full information, see inner page in the latest Banner.

Pennsylvania Humor -

Three men were sitting together bragging about how they had given their new wives duties.

The first man had married a woman from New York and bragged that he had told his wife she was going to do all the dishes and house cleaning. He said it took a couple days but on the third day he came home to a clean house and the dishes were done.

The second man had married a woman from Florida. He bragged that he had given his wife orders that she was to do all the cleaning, dishes and the cooking. On that the first day he didn't see any results, but the next day it was better. By the third day, his house was clean, the dishes were done and he had a huge dinner on the table.

The third man married a girl from Pennsylvania. He told her that her duties were to keep the house clean, dishes washed, lawn mowed, laundry washed and hot meals on the table for every meal. He said the first day he didn't see anything, the second day he didn't see anything but by the third day most of the swelling had gone down and he could see a little out of his left eye; enough to fix himself a bite to eat, load the dishwasher and telephone a landscaper.

Ya Gotta love those Pennsylvania girls!!!
